The latest version of Endicia Internet Postage lets users ship to military addresses with confidence. Endicia now supports Delivery Confirmation to many APO/FPO addresses and most U.S. Territories.

“Shipping to military addresses is an important service for many retailers and online sellers to fulfill products to members of the U.S. military and their families stationed around the world.” said Endicia president, Harry Whitehouse, “Because those addresses are only serviced through the USPS, we’re proud to offer the Postal Service’s new support for Delivery Confirmation to APO and FPO addresses. Now, Endicia users can ship and verify the delivery of packages to our troops here and abroad.”

Other Features

Numerous customer requests and usability enhancements to Endicia’s software interface let users to create labels more easily and print the correct postage for their shipments. Addresses can now be added to the address book straight from the design window, allowing users to capture commonly used addresses without retyping them. Accidental double-prints are now detected and flagged with a simple warning message to the user. A click on the “I Forgot” button in the account setup dialog box lets users securely reset their pass phrase. New layouts have been added to support the latest label printers, and support for an expanded number of USB and Serial Port scales is now available.

A new, industry standard database format improves the performance of the software Postage Log. Moreover, refund requests are now recorded locally, and postage reprints are supported in more cases. The new Postage Log also supports archiving and exporting in XML format, expanding on Endicia’s rich open-access connections.
